PETE AND ASHLEE: THE FIGHT OVER CUSTODY

Pete Wentz is firing back after Ashlee Simpson filed a divorce petition on Feb. 9 seeking primary physical custody of their son, Bronx. On March 7, the musician, 31, filed his own legal papers asking the judge for joint physical and legal custody. While a rep for Pete insists the divorce isn't getting nasty, "How amicable is any divorce? You're breaking up with someone you love," divorce lawyer Joshua Foreman, who's not involved in the case, tells Life & Style. "The court has to look at what's in the best interest of the child." In any case, the legal matter may reach a boiling point when Ashlee, 26, embarks on her next career venture. "She's in talks with Oxygen to do a reality show focusing on her life," an insider close to the network tells Life & Style. "Obviously, she'd want Bronx to be on the show, but Pete would have to grant his permission first," adds a friend of the couple. And while Ashlee's sister and mom Tina may be holding out for a reunion — "Jessica and Tina love Pete, and they're sad to see things ending this way," says a pal — Ashlee seems determined to move on. On March 1, she was spotted hanging out with Craig Owens, 26, a close friend of her soon-to-be-ex.

Ashlee and her new guy, Craig, hung out in Beverly Hills on March 1.
